ASSURANCE PLANNING

Highlights

Over the past few years we have increased parent trust and involvement within the school, and it is now at a very high level. Barons and Carmangay partner on our School Council, which results in a large turnout where parents can share and communicate their vision for the students. The percentage of parents agreeing that students are engaged in their learning has consistently been high. Carmangay School continues to use the CRReW model to guide students in their citizenship and have focused on students being leaders in their school. This is something that will be expanded this year. Our supports and services, including our LGM Liaison Dan Doersken, Family School Liaison Councillor Angela Hill, Making Connections Worker Megan Brown, and Off-Campus Coordinator Myles Havinga are fantastic resources that benefit our students.

Challenges to Address

High school completion continues to be an area of growth. The numbers have seen improvement every year, but they are still a challenge we are working to address. Dual credit programs, introduction to trades and other career paths, and more options while maintaining our flexible high school programs are how we are focusing on increasing completion rates and getting students ready for careers after high school. Our expanded foods lab, for example, will allow us to offer more courses to the students while bringing families into the school to celebrate the community. We are excited about the expansion of our kitchen and of increasing what we can offer to students to increase their learning and engagement. Carmangay School is also working to increase students' connection to the school so they feel a part of the school community.

Evaluations:

As a school community, parents have a strong belief that students are highly engaged in their learning at school. The students report a lower engagement and often cite a desire to get out of school and to start working. However, more students are staying in school for longer, which suggests that the students are engaged and see the value in their schooling. The staff at Carmangay continue to look for ways to engage students, including working with Southern Alberta Collegiate Institute to gain exposure to trades and other career paths in junior high, as well as dual credit programming in high school, and more interest in returning to school to upgrade.

Percentage of teachers, parents and students who are satisfied that students model the characteristics of active citizenship.

Evaluations:

There is a high percentage of students and parents who believe that students at Carmangay are responsible, respectful, and caring. They follow the rules, help each other, and work hard to grow and improve. CRReW assemblies, a focus on building community, and student leadership are areas of practice from last year that we continue to grow. Carmangay School is a better place when the students feel a sense of ownership for their actions, and the students demonstrate that here.

Evaluations:

Parental involvement is something Carmangay school values immensely. Results in this response were very high, and reflect the importance of parent involvement in their childrens' education. High attendance levels at our School Council meetings, parent invitations to our assemblies and principal chats, and our newsletters have contributed to providing opportunities for parents, and we are looking to increase those opportunities. Our expanded food lab, for example, is an area where we hope to involve parents more in the school community.

Evaluations:

When Carmangay students write their diploma exams, the number of students who achieve the Acceptable Standard and the Standard of Excellence is very high. Diploma exams are challenging and require dedication and commitment from students, and it is encouraging to see such excellent results. English as an Additional Language learners (EAL) face a greater challenge, and our students have risen to the challenge. As students move through the Junior High and Senior High, knowing they can achieve these results is a powerful tool to encourage them to continue to grow and demonstrates that there are multiple paths to success, including the higher streams as well as K & E.

Evaluations:

At Carmangay School, every student has the right to a safe, caring, and supportive learning environment. In all our interactions, we believe that students should feel they are a valued part of the school community. Staff work to create strong relationships so the students have someone to talk to and feel safe in doing so. Conversations, actions, and expectations are used to make every student feel they are safe, cared for, and taught what they need to be successful in their future. This is a constant and ongoing process that requires regular feedback to ensure that the students do feel this way, and feedback is always welcomed.

Evaluations:

While parents believe the quality of education is very high at Carmangay School, the students do not feel as strongly. Through student engagement, discussions, and greater involvement in what happens at the school, we are working to support the students in their learning and making education meaningful to them. Students are taking the lead this year in planning assemblies, doing the announcements, and making the school a welcoming place. By taking on some responsibility and ownership of what goes on at their school, we believe they will feel more connected to their school and each other.

Evaluations:

At Carmangay we believe that learning doesn't end when students leave school, but that in their lives, whether at work, at home, in their faith and community they will continue to grow and learn. Our emphasis on our CRReW philosophy and citizenship, multiple pathways of learning, and supporting students where they are at are all parts of lifelong learning. Everyone learns differently, and by emphasizing learning over a particular plan or expectation, our students are able to find success that is important to them and supports them in their lives.
